Sarasota market Year-to-Date eases off from 2004 historic run-up in prices, sales

Home sales in the Sarasota market have leveled off after the three historic peak years of 2003, 2004 and 2005. But the total number of sales has actually returned to the more normal market experienced in 2002 and prior years, while the median home price has risen significantly above the figure from four years ago.

“The public needs to understand one thing – real estate continues to sell in Sarasota, and at a pace not much lower than what was experienced in 2002, before we had the three peak years of 2003, 2004 and 2005,” explained Felix Power, 2006 SAR President. “The median price for homes and condominiums is up significantly from 2002, the overall sales volume is also significantly higher this year than in 2002. There is no denying the market experienced an historic run-up from 2003 into 2005, but sales actually slowed in 2005, and we have now returned to a more traditional, historic market.”

Year to date, through Aug. 31, 2006, residential single family home sales have fallen by 35 percent in the Sarasota market, while condominium sales are down 41 percent. Combined, the market has seen a decline of 37 percent in sales from the same time period in 2005.

In 2002, sales for the first eight months totaled 5,575 combined residential and condominium. However, the total dollar figure for sales in the first eight months of 2002 was only $1,610,758,921. This year, sales through Aug. 31 stand at 4,774, but with a total dollar figure of $2,397,716,946, reflecting the much higher median price.

The first eight months of 2004 saw combined home and condominium sales skyrocket to a record 7,931. There was only a small decline of about 300 fewer sales for the first eight months of 2005.

Overall, Florida’s housing sector continued to show signs of adjustment in August as many markets reported higher inventory levels of homes available for sale and a slowing pace of sales as buyers weighed more options. Statewide last month, home sales decreased by 34 percent from the 22,421 homes sold during the previous August, according to the Florida Association of Realtors® (FAR). Statewide, the existing-home median price remained unchanged at $248,400 last month; a year ago, it was $248,400, according to FAR.

For the first eight months of 2006, the median single family home price in the
