Florida's housing sector continued to show signs of market adjustments in July as mortgage rates edged up and the inventory of homes available for sale remained at higher levels in many markets.

Statewide, the existing-home median price rose 1 percent to $250,800 last month; a year ago, it was $248,200, according to the Florida Association of Realtors® (FAR). A total of 14,451 existing single-family homes sold statewide last month, a decrease of 33 percent from the 21,691 homes sold during the previous July, according to FAR.

In July 2001, the statewide median sales price was $132,000, representing an increase of about 90 percent over the five-year period, according to FAR records. The median is a typical market price where half the homes sold for more, half sold for less.

Nationally, the median sales price for existing single-family homes was $231,500 in June, up 1.1 percent from a year earlier, according to the National Association of Realtors® (NAR). In California, the statewide median resale price was $575,800 in June; in Massachusetts, it was $370,000; in Maryland, it was $320,750; and in New York, it was $279,000.

Over the past few months, home sales in the U.S. have held to a narrow range - a sign that the U.S. housing market is stabilizing, according to NAR housing industry analysts. Sales overall remain historically strong, NAR noted, with 2006 projected to be the third strongest sales year on record.

Looking to Florida's existing condominium market, sales of existing condos also decreased in July, with a total of 4,260 condos sold statewide compared to 6,739 in July 2005 for a 37 percent decrease, according to FAR. The statewide median sales price for condos last month was $210,200; a year ago, it was $211,900 for a 1 percent decrease. The national median existing condo price in June 2006 was $226,900.

In Sarasota, the median sales price for a single-family home in July 2006 was $350,000, compared to $360,000 in July 2005. The number of single-family homes sold in July 2006 was 349, compared to 534 in July 2005.

According to Freddie Mac, the average rate for a 30-year fixed-rate mortgage was 6.76 percent last month, up from 5.70 percent in July 2005. FAR's sales figures reflect closings, which typically occur 30 to 90 days after sales contracts are written.
